

CAPMIS: Case Planning Agenda

- ✓ Describe the purpose of case planning as distinguished from safety planning.
- ✓ Explain how the case plan is developed based on the assessment of the strengths and needs portion of the Family Assessment and Case Review.
- ✓ Describe the utility of, and how to group risk contributors.
- ✓ Describe the components and characteristics of each section of the case plan including:
 - What is the concern?
 - What behavior will need to change to reduce risk and address safety issues of the child(ren)?
 - Activity family members need to complete to make this change.
 - How will the caseworker and/or service team help the family make this change?
 - How will the family's progress be measured?
 - When will the family's progress be reviewed?
- ✓ Recognize errors in poorly written case plans, including concern and behavioral change statements, activities, and measuring family progress.
- ✓ Write well-formulated case plans, including concern and behavior change statements, activities, and measuring family progress.
