

Grouping Risk Contributors: The Johnston Family

List all of the Risk Contributors identified within the Johnston Family Assessment. Beside each Risk Contributor list the person(s) for whom the rating was applied.

Group the Risk Contributors from the list above by identifying which Risk Contributors are the main underlying Risk Contributor and group other related Risk Contributors with that Main Underlying Risk Contributor.

For example: Substance Abuse often results from people trying to cope with physical or emotional pain, and can result in poor health, and caregivers not having enough money to feed and clothe the children or take care of them. The main underlying Risk Contributor would be Substance Abuse, and it could be grouped with Response to Stressors, Resource Management and Household Maintenance, and Physical Health.

Beside the Grouping of Risk Contributors provide information stating why these are a concern for the family. Also, provide a Risk Priority for each grouping. Start with number 1 as the highest risk, 2 as the second highest risk, etc.
