Rivet School

College built for real life

At Rivet School, students earn their BA without having to leave their full time jobs. With the support of a personal coach and a wealth of wrap around resources, we make college work for you.

How our program works

An accredited BA: We enroll our students in an online, project-based degree program offered through a small number of curated partner universities. Each student gets a Rivet School-employed coach who provides personalized academic, motivational, and accountability support.

An affordable degree: All-in annual student cost is $7,000, with no extra fees. We facilitate access to federal financial aid, which can reduce monthly out-of-pocket cost to as little as $35. We also connect our students with interest-free loans, scholarships, and other responsible financing solutions.

An on-ramp to a great job: Rivet School students have access to career coaching and resources aligned to our career competencies (i.e. career planning). Students can also sign up for experience-building externships and other career development programs alongside their school work.

A world of resources: We support our students with access to co-working space, a free Chromebook (if they need it), and connections to community resources. We also foster community through regular social, academic, and career events, and through an online platform.

What people are saying

“Rivet School has helped me go to school without having to give up on working full-time. They have provided so much support that I was able to earn my BA (after transferring with my AA) in a year and a half.”

- Ofelia Alfonso, BA grad and Ed Pathway student

“Rivet School helps you earn a AA or BA in between life’s busy schedule with work, kids, or other social obligations. The program is amazing and the coaches are helpful.”

- Andrew Murphy, Rivet School’s first BA grad

“The team at Rivet School has created something really special. They provide our staff with everything they need - from an actual degree to motivational coaching and academic tutoring. More than anything, I trust Rivet School will do whatever it takes for their students’ success.”

- Marisa Ramirez, Director, East Bay After School Programs, Bay Area Community Resources (BACR)
