

College built for real life

Rivet School is a nonprofit college program that helps students earn degrees while taking care of family and working full-time.

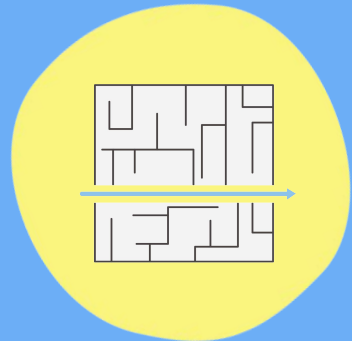

We provide the support and resources you need to succeed in SNHU's leading competency-based degree program. As a student, you'll be completing real-world projects, not by taking exams or sitting in lectures.

Keep your job while earning your bachelor's degree

At Rivet School, students earn their degree without having to leave their full time jobs. With the support of a personal coach and a wealth of wraparound resources, we make college work for you.

How it works

Personalized coaching and flexibility. Our College Coaches provide highly personalized 1:1 coaching every step of the way.

Financial Aid. We'll support you through the FAFSA application process and guide you towards additional financial aid opportunities.

100% online and project-based. Create your own schedule as you master projects and make degree progress. No classes, tests, or quizzes.

Accredited Degree. Our primary degree partner, SNHU, is an accredited, nonprofit university that offers competency-based education programs.
